

Will Your Teen Be Driving Soon?

If your teen is about to get a driver's license, you're likely feeling anxious and concerned. That's a natural reaction - considering teen drivers have more auto accidents than any age group.

As your Good Neighbor Agent, I can provide information that will help make this important rite of passage less overwhelming. The first step is to call or stop by my office. My staff and I can explain the impact adding a new driver to your policy will have on your auto insurance premiums. We can also provide you and your teen useful information about the importance of driving safely and the impact traffic violations will have on the cost of insurance.

In addition, I can explain any discounts that may apply. For example, your teen may qualify for the Good Student Discount, and in many states, Steer states, Steer Clear® Safe Driver and Driver Training Discount. In most states, State Farm also offers multiple auto, multiple line, vehicle safety, and accident free discounts, and, in some states, an anti-theft device and defensive driving discount.*

To add a new driver to your policy, please call or stop by my office today. And, for some common sense pointers that will help you prepare your teenager for driving, be sure to see page 14 for the free brochure "Safety Tips for Teen Drivers."

*Availability of discounts varies by state or province.
